Are You Lonely? Just Remember You Are Not Alone

Draft · Medium

Are You Lonely? Just Remember You Are Not Alone

Sometimes you'll just feel you're nothing, you're zero, you're useless, you are so so, yeah you get it? That kind of dumb feeling (loneliness). But what I want you to know is that you're not alone.

Just like you, many other people battle with the same problem. I think you lost somebody to talk to, somebody to share what you feel with, somebody who'll listen to what you want spit in order to get rid of your loneliness.

Always try to do something that'll enlighten your mood, something that will make you happy. Like switching off all your technological devices and gadgets, go to somewhere and interact with new people.

Please be happy, if you're fan of hiking just go for it, if you're into exploring new places and having fun just go for it. If you're music lover just find the best and enjoy it, if you're into listening to recitation of Qur'an just do it.

Your happiness is what matters the most and meeting new people and getting to know them, study them, their traditions, culture and so on is really cool. Why not try?.

To be stuck in one geo location with same people, oh it's so boring brother, travel brings happiness to the heart and satisfaction to the soul.

Try it out when you get time.

Originally published athttps://coolguyo.blogspot.comon December 15, 2023.